The program for June will be "Sharpening Your Tools". We will have four sharpening stations set up and the members attending the meeting will have the opportunity of seeing how four experienced turners recommend sharpening their tools.

Dave Marshall, Glynn Cox, Jim Tanksley, and John Horn will be demonstrating how they sharpen different kinds of tools. If you have a single tool that you would like sharpened, please bring it and possibly one of the stations can help you. Obviously we cannot sharpen even one tool from everyone in attendance but we plan for you to learn how different people accomplish the task of keeping their tools sharp.

... making Good Shavings

Sharp, Sharper, Sharpest! Well, it's been a quick month since our last meeting and I feel that I haven't had enough "me-time" on the lathe. Oh sure I've been turning...whipped out an odd little box out of bois d'arc and also a medium sized, bois d'arc, natural-edge bowl. I got to turn some nice handles for that slick Rockler pizza cutter kit and Lacer's ice cream scoop kit. Those were fun even though I'm still not happy with the fit between the pizza cutter handle and the hilt on the cutter itself. Sandy Jarrell saw the error of my way and told me how to chuck up the handle to get the best fit. So I guess I'll re-do that handle sometime soon.

June has had too many distractions that seemed to interfere with quality turning time like my daughter's graduation, crazy brothers and nephews visiting, college orientation, neighborhood block parties, Father's Day and those exciting Maverick basketball playoff games (Go Mavs!). One of the biggest distractions/disruptions was that heat! 105 degree temps just don't sit well with me.

I had the AC cranked in the shop but it just can't keep up with those temps. Like I mentioned, I was turning that bois d'arc and some black walnut, sweatin' pretty good and having all those shavings sticking to you...and the stain on my hands...oy vey! I'd come in at the end of the day with my hands just totally black with stain. Tracy and my youngest thought it looked disgusting, especially when I was cooking dinner. And that's another thing that's been cutting into my turning time is all these little chores that Tracy has lined up in order for me to get out of last month's dog house! Not that I mind too much, 'cause like I said it was getting to get a little warm out there in the shop and my supplies were startin' to run low. But enough is enough! Telling me to do this or do that or to get dressed and look sharp 'cause we're going out somewhere fancy. I looked sharp. It's just that my hands were black. You'd think them snooty folks at the Bass Hall would understand. Well, anyways, she's pushing the line when she starts cutting into a turner's lathe time. That just really steams me....one day I'm going to say something... probably sometime around October... when it's cooler out in the dog house.... I mean shop.

One of the best things I found when you're all sweaty and your turning chips keep getting stuck on you is to put a scary sharp edge on that bowl gouge and produce nice long ribbons of wood. These just seem to fall right off of your sweaty forearms and legs. Also a sharp tool will give you more control of aiming those shavings away from you, not to mention the great cut that results from a sharp tool. That means less sanding and less sanding dust sticking to you. Sharp tools are like a sharp-dressed man (albeit a man with black-stained hands); they're fun to be around and play with and damn, they look so much better than any old dull tool. Go ahead, ask Tracy about this comparison... I tell no lies.

So, are your turning tools like a sharp-dressed man? Are you getting ribbons instead of chips and dust? Are your resultant cuts clean and crisp? Is the tool fun to use and does it cut efficiently? And is it eye-candy (looks good)? If not, this month's Club meeting might interest you....it's on Sharpening! We plan to have a general discussion on sharpening basics and then set up 4 sharpening stations to do close-up demonstrations of not only sharp-ening basic turning tools but also show different methods and different sharpening setups that various turners use to get these sharp cutting edges. There's more than one way to skin a dead cat but the common denominator here, is always a sharp tool (cat skinning with a dull edge is never easy or fun).

Sharp tools also make efficient work when you're turning a bowl for Empty Bowls too. As we mentioned last month, it's time to really gear up our production for Empty Bowls. Please help those in need in our community. It takes so little effort on our part to turn a bowl or platter which then brings in premium dollars to the Tarrant Area Food Bank. You wouldn't believe how many people are fed by our bowl donations. Please take the time to turn a bowl this month and bring it to the meeting so that we can have a GREAT start to our Empty Bowls campaign.

SWAT is right around the corner and early registration has begun. Sign up today to get an early registration discount and to get entered in registration raffles!

Hate to end this article prematurely but Tracy is yelling for me to rub her feet...serenity now...serenity now.

Good Shavings to all of you,

Dave

Don't forget that if you were a winner of any item in the May 2011 drawing, you are obligated to bring a replacement item for the June 2011 “Bring Back” drawing.
